

I support XM Radio because they give the listeners what they want. We can get weather or traffic updates for other cities or states we may be traveling to. We can be 100 miles away and listen to the update and re-route ourselves so we are not part of the traffic congestion problem. We have a large selection of stations we can listen to and not lose a signal. With regular radio we have dropped channels or faded signals. It is nice to travel cross country and listen to the same station all the way across.

We need and want XM radio.

Sincerely

Thor Hansen
